THESE POSTERS WERE A LABOR OF LOVE

The posters here are influenced by style, simplicity, colors and message of the WPA (Works Progress Administration). The WPA was part of The New Deal in the 1930s, when the government employed millions to create work for the public good. This included a variety of artists, including designers who created posters for the public good.

My roots in graphic design begin with the idea as DESIGN FOR THE PUBLIC GOOD. That is what continues to inspire me as a graphic designer still. Right now, as we traverse this new landscape of COVID-19,

I am again inspired to create design that matches the needs and reminders of the moment.

PRINT THEM OUT, PUT THEM IN YOUR WINDOWS, SHARE THEM ON SOCIAL MEDIA.

PLEASE MAKE SURE TO CREDIT ME WHEN YOU DO.
